

Pandemics

Written by Supreme Servant

Pandemics is a fear based scheme which is new on the scene. The fear for wide spread diseases has been deeply engrained in the human psyche for a long time. This is not without ground, but can easily be exploited to put in place barriers that you control. A barrier you control is always an opportunity to extract wealth from your subjects who need to cross your boundary. The advertised reason for your control of your made up boundary is that you want to stop bacteria (mommy motherland nurturing variant), the real reason is that you want to extract wealth from your tax subjects.

As long as you say you are not interested in profits like those greedy companies, the tax subjects are likely to believe your advertising while remaining suspicious of company advertising. Fear and indoctrination at a young age are essential ingredients to make this thing work.
